OneClickHR says that first half revenues will be ahead of the same period in 2008.

The shares improved 0.75p to 8.5p a share, which values OneClickHR at £12.6m.

The developer of human resources software launched new products during June but this was too late to have much of an effect on the first half figures. These products widen the potential market for the software as well as providing a way of migrating older customers to a more up to date version of the product.

New sales partners have been appointed in Canada and the US. OneClickHR has produced a US localised version of the software.

The interim figures will be released in September 2009.
